a new and distinctive analysis of the dramatic fall of soeharto the last of the great cold war capitalist dictators and of the struggles that reshape the institutions and systems of power and wealth in indonesia

this element argues that after twenty years of democratization indonesia has performed admirably this is especially so when the country s accomplishments are placed in comparative perspective however as we analytically focus more closely to inspect indonesia s political regime political economy and how identity based mobilizations have emerged it is clear that indonesia still has many challenges to overcome some so pressing that they could potentially erode or reverse many of the democratic gains the country has achieved since its former authoritarian ruler soeharto was forced to resign in 1998 an indonesian economy first took shape in the latter part of the nineteenth century consisting of a dominant export industry supported by a rural agrarian sphere the agricultural sector provided food and labour to the export sector which was firmly embedded in the world economy this economic pattern survived several shifts of the leading export industry and persisted even after indonesia became independent in the mid 20th century hiroyoshi kano uses international trade statistics to analyze three key elements in the indonesian economy the balance of international payments and trade the transformation undergone by leading export industries and the way in which the agricultural sector supplied land labour and food dividing the 150 year time span covered by the book into four periods based on the prevailing major export industries he identifies key actors and analyzes long term changes in agricultural production and rural society and how they shaped the national economy the premise of social science and power in indonesia is that the role and development of social sciences in indonesia over the past fifty years are inextricably related to the shifting requirements of power what is researched and what is not which frameworks achieve paradigmatic status while others are marginalized and which kinds of social scientists become influential while others are ignored are all matters of power these and other important themes and issues are critically explored by some of indonesia s foremost social scientists in this seminal work since the first edition indonesia has undergone massive political and legal change as part of its post soeharto reform process and its dramatic transition to democracy this work contains 25 new chapters and the 4 surviving chapters have all been revised where necessary indonesia law and society now covers a broad range of legal fields and includes both historical and very up to date analyses and views on Indonesian legal issues it includes work by leading scholars from a wide range of countries there is still no comparable English language text in existence with the revival of Islamic law and adat customary law in the country this book investigates the history and phenomenon of legal pluralism in Indonesia it looks at how the ideal of modernity in Indonesia has been characterized by a state driven effort in the post colonial era to make the institution of law an inseparable part of national development focusing on the aspects of political and conflictual domains of legal pluralism in Indonesia the book discusses the understanding of the state's attitude and behaviour towards the three largest legal traditions currently operative in the society adat law Islamic law and civil law the first aspect is addressed by looking at how the state specifically deals with Islamic law and adat law while the second is analysed in terms of actual cases of private interpersonal law such as interfaith marriage interfaith inheritance and gendered inheritance the book goes on to look at how socio political factors have influenced the relations between state and non state laws and how the state's strategy of accommodation of legal pluralism has in fact largely depended on the extent to which those legal traditions have been able to conform to national ideology it is a useful contribution for students and scholars of Asian studies and law

Indonesia was founded on the ideal of the sovereignty of the people which suggests the pre-eminence of people's rights to access use and control land to support their livelihoods yet many questions remain unresolved how can the state ensure access to land for agriculture and housing while also supporting land acquisition for investment in industry and infrastructure what is to be done about indigenous rights do registration and titling provide solutions is the land reform agenda legislated but never implemented still relevant how should the land questions affecting Indonesia's disappearing forests be resolved the contributors to this volume assess progress on these issues through case studies from across the archipelago from large scale land acquisitions in Papua to asset ownership in the villages of Sulawesi and Java to tenure conflicts associated with the oil palm and mining booms in Kalimantan Sulawesi and Sumatra what are the prospects for the people's sovereignty in regard to land the serious degradation of the vast peatlands of Indonesia since the 1990s is the proximate cause of the haze that endangers public health in Indonesian Sumatra and Borneo and also in neighbouring Singapore Malaysia and Thailand moreover peatlands that have been drained and cleared for plantations are a major contributor to greenhouse gas emissions this new book explains the degradation of peat soils and outlines a potential course of action to deal with the catastrophe looming over the region concerted action will be required to reduce peatland fires and a successful policy needs to enhance social welfare and economic survival support natural conservation and provide a return on investment if there is to be a sustainable society in the peatlands this book argues that regeneration is possible through a new policy of people's forestry that includes reforestation and rewetting
